The Vicar writes…

[Acknowledgement - Last month's excellent article on this page was written by Allen Knott, Licensed Lay Minister in our team.]

Remembrance Sunday this year falls on 11th November - a day to commemorate the contribution of British and Commonwealth military and civilian servicemen and women in the two World Wars and later con icts and this year commemorating the 100th anniversary of the end of hostilities in the First World War at 11 am on 11th November 1918 – the eleventh hour of the eleventh day of the eleventh month.

To mark this special day there will be a joint service for the churches of the Valley and Valence held at St Martin's Church, Martinstown. We begin on the green outside the church at 10.45 when the names of those from our villages who fell, in both wars, will be read, wreaths will be laid and the two-minute silence observed. This will be followed at 11 am by a service in the church where, through the poems of G.A. Studdert Kennedy (known as Woodbine Willie - a WW1 Chaplain), hymns and readings we will re ect on the themes of human values, the futility of warfare, sacri ce, love and loss, comradeship, hope and forgiveness. The words we hear, the hymns we sing, the music and sounds of WW1 and visual displays of poppies and memorabilia will take us to a deeper understanding of the trauma and emotions experienced by this nation during the First World War.

It was a war that was supposed to end all wars. Today, of course, many of the scars and divisions we suffer are the result not of conventional warfare, but of the cruel and destructive violence of global terrorism. Even now, amongst continuing con icts and fragile peace, we need the words to express the hope of Christ's peaceable kingdom, as well as the imagination and resilience to go on, and on, praying for peace and working for reconciliation. I do hope you can join us on 11th November to experience a very special and poignant occasion in honour of those who died for our freedom.

"It was a war supposed to end ALL wars..."

On 4th November at 3 pm there will be a service for All Souls at St Martin's Church, Martinstown. During the service there will be time and space to remember our loved ones now departed, to hear their name read out, to light a candle in commemoration and after the service time to chat over a cup of tea. All are welcome.

Yours in Christ

The W.I meeting 10/10/18 "Music in The Home" by Gordon Barlett. Mr Barlett arrived to discuss and demonstrate his collection of mechanical music boxes. Each box came in it's own ornate wooden box, and had to be manually turned to activate. The music boxes came from England, France, Germany and America. The music boxes dated from 18th Century to the early 20th century. Mr Barlett demonstrated how each mechanical music box worked and played it's music.

Flower of the month was won by Julie Lines, with a beautiful red rose.

VALLEY CLUB NEWS

At our last meeting in September we had a very inspirational talk and short video presentation by Gill Slade, who is a volunteer and fundraiser for 'Julia's House'.

Julia's House was named after Julia Perks, a dedicated paediatric nurse, who trained at Great Ormond Street Hospital and sadly died prematurely from cancer in 1997. Julia's dream was to develop a support network for families struggling to care for a life-limited child without any help or respite. After her death, Julia's family, friends and colleagues raised enough money to set up 'Julia's House' in Dorset. There are now two Julia's House Hospices – one in Corfe Mullen, Dorset and one in Devizes, Wiltshire – where parents can leave their very sick children for respite care. The 'houses', which are maintained by volunteers, do not resemble hospitals and are places where children and parents can experience specialist care, enjoyable activities and fun play sessions, making friends and sharing happy times together. Julia's House literally wraps its arms around the family and aims to make a child's short life as fun as possible. Across Dorset, Julia's House helps around 100 children aged 0-18 years from about 150 families with a variety of life-limiting illnesses.

The nurses and carers, besides working in the hospices, also visit families in their own homes, organise trips and provide end-of-life care both at the hospices and at home. They continue to offer emotional and practical support for the whole family after a bereavement. Supported by many volunteers, this remarkable charity only receives 6% of its funding in Dorset from the Government, so it relies on money from its shops, talks, Friends of Julia's House fundraising ideas, a weekly lottery, legacies, challenge events and donations. More volunteers are always needed, so do get in touch with Julia's House if you are able to offer any assistance.

Our last event for this year – on Friday 23rd November at 8.00pm - will be our Social Evening, when we will offer mulled wine & mince pies with entertainment by 'Uncovered'. This group of 5 young, talented musicians includes Joe, Lynne Axford's grandson. There is no charge for Valley Club members and non-members are very welcome to attend at a cost of £5.00. A great night is guaranteed, so we hope to see many of you there.

Ringing Remembers...

Ringing Remembers is a nationwide project to honour the 1400 bell ringers that were lost during the First World War. Its aim is to recruit this number of of new ringers to join others, across the country, in ringing on the centenary of the Armistice in November 2018.

Nationally, the gure of 1400 has already been surpassed and amongst these will be ve new ringers from our parish. We should now be able to ring on a more regular basis before Sunday Services.

As Martinstown bells are part of the village war memorial, having been installed after the Second World War, it is appropriate that they will be rung as part of the Centenary commemorations. In addition to Armistice Day ringing, there will be a full peal attempt on the morning of Monday 12th November. This will be by a visiting band who have been coming to St Martin's monthly, on Friday mornings. The full peal will last just under three hours and will be the rst since the Diamond Jubilee in 2012.

Saint Martin

by Terry Hearing

Martin lived in Gaul (now France) through the second half of the 4th century AD, when Europe was dominated by the Roman Empire. There is no record of his coming to Britain, but there are many churches dedicated to him in this country, which suggests that his in uence and reputation were widespread during and long after his life.

Almost all the information we have is in the writing of his friend and biographer Sulpitius, and a single source is never satisfactory for the historian. Martin was born in 316 in a frontier town of the Empire in what is now Hungary. His father was in the Roman army and had risen through the ranks to become an of cer known as a Tribune. The big issue for Europe at the time was immigration, with people from the Middle East hammering at the boundaries of the Empire in search of a better and safer life. Does this sound familiar?

Like most people in the Empire, Martin's parents observed the traditional religion of a pantheon of many gods, but Christianity had spread across from eastern Europe and there were many local small groups with substantial differences in their theology. Christians had been ercely persecuted when the ruling classes realized that this sect refused to accept the divinity of the Emperor, but this had subsided under the Emperor Constantine. Meantime Martin's father had been posted to northern Italy, and the family were astonished when their ten-year old son expressed interest in Christianity and attended the church in Pavia.

Martin continued to attend church and applied for baptism, which involved special and elaborate preparation, but his request was rejected – perhaps he was too young. Among other things he declared his ambition to become a hermit. His father had planned Martin's future, and at fteen he was summarily sent off to join a cavalry regiment.

His length of army service is not certain but it seems likely he was a soldier for twenty- ve years. At some time during his service occurred the incident in which, moved by the plight of a poor beggar Martin took off his own cloak, cut it in half with his sword and shared it with the beggar: this is the story for which he is best known.

At the age of forty he left the army, declared his Christian vocation, and went in search of a renowned preacher, Hilary of Poitiers. Until this time, Martin had followed the version of Christianity which had been advanced by the theologian Arius, who argued that Jesus Christ had not always been the Son of God. Meeting Hilary in Caesarodunum (later called Tours), Martin was converted to the doctrine of the Trinity which has been the traditional doctrine ever since.

Both Hilary and Martin were persecuted by the Arians, but eventually Hilary (who was not poor) provided Martin with a ruined villa where he could live the life of a hermit. In fact he was rarely alone – his fame as a preacher and as a healer spread, and miracles were attributed to him. Subsequently the villa became the site of the Benedictine monastery of Liguge.

After ten years Martin was reluctantly forced by the Christian community to become Bishop of Tours in 371. His vigour in pursuit of this responsibility led to the destruction of pagan temples and the foundation of another monastery at Marmoutier on the other side of the river Loire. Further foundations across Gaul followed.

After Martin's death in 397 a cult developed with pilgrimages to his shrine, and even in the last century he has been regarded as the premier saint in France. How did he come to the Winterborne? Possibly with the Normans, possibly earlier – probably we'll never know.

Wye Valley and Forest of Dean

It's just such an amazing and joyous thing that 28 people (and a few dogs) from the same village go on holiday together and have such a wonderful time. I wonder how many other villages can say that. We're so lucky.

Anyway, the Mileaters were on tour again in September, staying in a lovely hotel just outside Ross-on-Wye and enjoying stimulating walks in the beautiful Wye Valley and the Forest of Dean. We arrived on Tuesday lunchtime and once unpacked, we embarked on our first walk, setting out from our hotel, which was situated within National Trust parkland. The setting was beautiful and our 5 mile walk took us through undulating countryside down to the banks of the Wye. We walked along the riverbank for a mile or so taking in the views and watching the abundant birdlife.

The next day took us down to Tintern Abbey, which is actually in Wales. The abbey is a majestic ruin, positioned on the banks of the Wye, set in a valley and surrounded by densely wooded and steep-sided forests. Our 6 mile walk took us into the forest, initially following the line of an old railway track. It is interesting to reflect that pre-Beeching, the railway system reached into such remote spots. We eventually reached a fantastic viewing point, "The Devil's Pulpit", which afforded spectacular views over the abbey and Tintern village.

Our third day started ominously with very heavy rain in the morning, which made our planned walk seem highly unlikely. A number of us took off to nearby Hereford, particularly to look at the beautiful Cathedral with it's prized exhibit, the medieval "Mappa Mundi". Others found their way to local shops. Amazingly the rain cleared in the afternoon to allow us to tackle our planned walk from the spectacular Symonds Yat. We started at the top of Symonds Yat Rock, which despite the gloom afforded magni cent views down over the Wye Valley. Our 5 1/2 mile walk took us once again into a thickly wooded hillside and descending to the river where we walked along the riverbank back to Symonds Yat. Before that we made a short diversion to a wobbly pedestrian suspension bridge where the more intrepid amongst us ventured across. We ended up at the local pub where we partook of welcome refreshment, before some of us made the very steep 1/2 mile ascent back to the car park. These brave few then drove cars back down the road to the pub to pick up the "lucky" others.

All of the above was punctuated with great meals at the hotel, where there was plenty of mirth and loud conversation. Some of us even made it into the outdoor pool and the Sauna and Jacuzzi. Great fun! The final evening after dinner we were entertained by our excellent Ukulele duet of Celia and Frances. This soon degenerated into a raucous sing-song. A great end to our lovely holiday.

We had such a wonderful time although we felt a little sorry for the very small number of other residents to have to put up with the noisy Martinstown lot!

We're looking forward to our next holiday in April 2019 in the glorious South Downs.
